FHC Caregivers go above and beyond for clients needing Parkinson's care

April is National Parkinson's Awareness Month. Freedom Home Care is proud of our five in-home caregivers that went above and beyond for our clients with Parkinson's by completing the Parkinson's Care Certification through the Institute for Professional Care Education. This training was an elective training offered in addition to the required training each FHC caregiver receives. The Institute of Professional Care Education is a leader in caregiver training for cargiving professionals.

The Parkinson's Care Certification addresses the wide range of abilities and challenges individuals with Parkinson’s disease have. This 12 hour program teaches caregivers how to help clients maintain their independence and mobility as long as possible while understanding some of the special needs of the person in their care.
